

UPDATE JUNE 2019 ABMM (Brazilian Association of Medical Women)

A lay magazine for women above fifty years, "Senhora" published an article about Gender Medicine, written by Anna Maria Martits and Elisa Garcez representing ABMM.

The State of São Paulo Law number 16767 of June 2018 that obligates the teaching at the chair of Internal Medicine of a chapter about Diseases that differ between Women and Men (Gender Medicine) is being introduced in two Medical Schools of São Paulo by the active support of ABMM: Medical School of Santa Casa de São Paulo and Medical School of Federal University of São Paulo.

There are two other medical schools in São Paulo programming the introduction of this subject.

On 30th May, there was a symposium on "Global Attention to Women's Health" at Santa Casa de São Paulo Medical School organized by Dr. Sonia Maria Rolim R. Lima of the executive of ABMM.

Looking forward meeting everybody in New York in July at MWIA Centennial.
